

Henry J. Spooner.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 9.—Henry J. Spooner, a member of Congress from Rhode Island from 1881 to 1891, and a veteran of the civil war, died here today. He was 79 years old. Mr. Spooner was born here and was graduated from Brown University in 1860 and a year later from Albany Law School. From 1875 until he was sent to Congress he was a member of the Rhode Island House of Representatives. In recent years he practiced law as a member of the firm of Spooner, Miller & Brown of Providence.

Mrs. M. C. Gregory.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Mrs. M. C. Gregory died today at the home of her son, Attorney General Thomas W. Gregory. She was more than 80 years old and had been ill for a month. The body will be sent to Columbus, Miss., where funeral services will be held on Wednesday.

Dr. Lyman Curtis Bryan.

BERNE, Switzerland, Feb. 9.—Dr. Lyman Curtis Bryan died today at Lausanne. He had long been a resident of Switzerland and was considered one of the highest dental authorities in Europe. He was born in Kentucky in 1852.

Obituary Notes.

Mrs. CATHERINE WHEELER, wife of William Wheeler, and a lifelong resident of Oyster Bay, died there on Friday.

WILLIAM L. SMITH of Flint & Smith, publishers of The Danbury (Conn.) News, died suddenly at Danbury yesterday.

ALVA GRAY, 69 years old, first President of the First National Bank of Dunellen, N. J., died at his home there yesterday.

Mrs. MARY P. MCGOWN, widow of Judge Henry P. McGown, died on Thursday at her home, 1,982 Madison Avenue, in her ninetieth year.

HENRY G. ROLLPILLER, proprietor of a bottling establishment in West Orange, N. J., died at his home there yesterday. He was 69 years old.

Mrs. FANNY DUNBAR CORBUSIER, 80 years old, wife of Colonel W. H. Corbusier, U. S. A., retired, died on Friday night at her home in Plainfield, N. J.

THOMAS M. BREWSTER, 70 years old, who had been in the lumber business in Hackensack, N. J., for many years, died yesterday at Jacksonville, Fla.

Mrs. BARBARA STIMMELL, 80 years old, died at her home in Bayside, L. I., on Friday. She was the widow of John Stimmell, who was for many years in the hotel business at Whitestone.

EUGENE GERBEREAUX, a real estate operator of Yonkers, died yesterday, at his home there, in his sixty-ninth year. He was in a great measure responsible for the development of South Yonkers, where he erected large modern apartment houses.

COLLIDGE BROWN, a 91-year-old "news-boy" of Chicago, died there on Friday. Brown was the grandson of two of Washington's Generals—General Aaron Brown and General Gates. He voted for seventeen Presidential candidates and expressed regret before his death that he could not live to see the Kaiser humbled.

CORNELIUS F. CAUFIELD, retired contractor and builder of Brooklyn, and for twenty-three years President of the Bushwick Building and Loan Association, died on Friday at his residence, 114 McDonough Street, Brooklyn. He was born in that borough seventy-three years ago, and was a former President of Leonard Council, Catholic Benevolent League, and a member of Washington Council, Knights of Columbus.

WILLIAM H. WALKER, a civil war veteran and a former night Warden of the Tombs Prison, died on Thursday at his home, 151 Autumn Avenue, Brooklyn, from heart disease. Mr. Walker was born in this city seventy-one years ago, and when the civil war began he enlisted in Company K of the First Iowa Cavalry, of which he later became Corporal. He was a member of Dakin-Slocum Post, G. A. R., and of the Prison Keepers' Association of New York.